

After the great success of the last years, once again

&

would like to invite you to

An introduction to AFBI's Veterinary Science Division

WHERE: AFBI Stormont's library 1 – 5 pm + dinner
12 Stoney Rd, Belfast BT4 3SD

WHEN: Wednesday 24th of January, 2018

An interactive afternoon starting with a general introduction to AFBI-VSD and information on the services provided to veterinary surgeons. There will be several short presentations followed by a site visit.

- What can AFBI do for you and your clients? - Maria Guelbenzu
- AMR in NI farm animals to-date: what could you do for your clients? - Siobhan Corry
- Selective Dry Cow Therapy, an opportunity to reduce antibiotic usage on dairy farms?
– Aurelie Moralis
- Trace element metabolism in sheep - Jason Barley
- Neospora herd investigation and management – Helen Gibney

Presentations and coffee break will be followed by site visit:

- Laboratory tour: including the laboratories processing diagnostic samples and the BVD laboratory
- Post-mortem area: including a demonstration of a PM examination – by Catherine Forsythe

The evening will be finished with a free dinner at Horatio Todd's, kindly sponsored by:

COST: This event is free but places are limited!

To register contact yvn.ni@hotmail.com

The Young Vet Network NI is part of the North of Ireland Veterinary Association (NIVA)*